The most promising export to the The most promising export to the United States, after toys, is according to the commercial museum, artificial flowers for hair and hat ornaments. The Japanese estimate that about $10,000,000 is spent every year in America on these flowers, and are planning to build up a big export to that country. Japan realizes that the export in mu-nitions of war is but momentary and is shrewdly planning for a commercial development that will prove permanent. The new industries now started cover a multitued of articles which it is hoped to sell to China especially;
